Why? The Kolhapuri debate made Indian shoppers proud of the original crafts. GI-tagged and artisan-made products now carry real brand value.

What? Indian crafts are in the global spotlight. Prada showed Kolhapuri-inspired sandals in 7 of 56 Spring/Summer 2026 looks, Rabari embroidery reached the Indian runway, and kantha is moving onto sneakers.

Who's showing it?

Price guide (India)

KEY GARMENT	VALUE	MID	PREMIUM
Kolhapuri chappals	₹499–1,299	₹1,500–3,500	₹6,000+
Mirror-work kurta or jacket	₹1,299–2,499	₹3,000–7,000	₹15,000+
Embroidered juttis	₹799–1,499	₹1,800–4,000	₹7,500+

Cost to make: Medium. Hand embroidery is labour-heavy. Use placement embroidery and partner with clusters for authentic GI-tagged pieces.

How to build the capsule

- Source one GI-tagged hero product and credit the craft cluster.
- Add mirror or kantha accents to everyday basics.
- Pair Kolhapuris and juttis with western looks in imagery.

Range plan

Use Indian embroidery and textiles on silhouettes that travel: shirts, jackets, dresses and trousers. Explain the craft clearly for customers who may not know it.

- Hero pieces (about 20%): the strongest expression of the story, at higher prices.
- Core pieces (about 60%): easy-to-wear styles in the capsule colours.
- Add-ons (about 20%): accessories and layers that increase basket size.

Selling it in different regions

In India, time the capsule to the festive or summer window it suits. For South Asian communities abroad, link it to local festival dates and weddings. For international customers new to Indian fashion, lead with easy pieces such as shirts, jackets and scarves, and explain the craft.

Common questions

Why is Indian craft going global? Luxury brands and Indian couturiers on international calendars have raised awareness of techniques such as zardozi and chikankari.

How do I price craft for export? Include hand-work time, quality control and documentation costs, and position the product as premium.
