Core Item Update: Sarees 2026–28

The saree is being redesigned for speed.

Forecut Editorial · 11 October 2026

Overview

The saree is being redesigned for speed. Pre-draped and stitched versions are rising into Festive 26, handloom and tissue add quiet shine, and office-ready fluid drapes are an early signal worth testing. Heavier scalloped organza is at its peak and starts to fade by Festive 27.

How to update your sarees range

- Offer every hero saree in a classic and a pre-draped version.
- Add belts and jackets as styling add-ons to sell the look, not just the drape.
- Use pastel handloom and champagne tissue for festive capsules that can be worn again.
- Plan the exit for heavy scalloped organza after Summer 27.

What to check in sarees development

- Length and width: most sarees are about 5.5 to 6.3 metres long; pre-draped versions need a waist size chart instead.
- Blouse piece: state whether a blouse piece is attached and its length.
- Pallu and border: plan the motif scale so the pallu reads clearly when draped.
- Fall and pico: offer finishing as standard for easy wear.

Fabric guide

Choose fabric by occasion, climate and price point. The same design often needs two fabric options: a premium version and a value or summer version.

- Handloom silks and cottons for premium and festive
- Georgette and chiffon for easy drape and travel
- Tissue and organza for light festive shine
- Linen and cotton blends for summer and office wear

The global view

Indian sarees sell well beyond India, to South Asian communities in the UK, North America, the Gulf, Southeast Asia and Australia, and increasingly to customers discovering Indian craft. For international customers, provide clear size conversions, care guidance and styling ideas for local events.

Common questions

Are pre-draped sarees replacing traditional sarees? No. They widen the market, especially for younger customers and busy occasions, while traditional drapes remain central for weddings and festivals.

What sells best online? Sarees with clear drape photos, fabric close-ups and a stated weight sell better than flat product shots.
